Dames Entertained.
The Washington Post of yesterday contains the following of interest in Richmond.

An interesting feature of the reception of the Colonial Dames by Mrs. Taft this afternoon will be the presentation to the White House of a portrait of Mrs. James Madison, wife of the fourth President of the United States, and mistress of the White House for eight years. The picture is a copy of the portrait of Mrs. Madison by Gilbert Stuart, now hanging in the Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, and will be presented by the Virginia Society of Colonial Dames.

Among the women who have presided in the White House, and whose portraits now adorn its walls, are Mrs. John Tyler, Mrs. Van Buren, Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

The portrait of Mrs. Washington, who, however, never lived in the White House, is one of the most valued works of art in the collection. Like the famous portrait of President Washington, saved from destruction by Mrs. James Madison at the time of the British invasion of the capital, it is the work of Gilbert Stuart.

Mrs. Joseph R. Lambert entertained at a tea Thursday afternoon in compliment to the Council of the Colonial Dames of America at her house, 1711 Massachusetts avenue. Mrs. Lambert was assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, president of the society; Mrs. Elizabeth Cass Goddard, vice-president; Mrs. Charles Miller, of Delaware, secretary; and Miss Alice French, of Iowa, national historian. Mrs. Groesbeck, of Ohio, poured tea and Mrs. Adams, of Kentucky, served the ices.

RECEIVED.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Fredericksburg, Va., May 3.—The Phi Beta Kappa Chapter at Washington and Lee held its annual initiation to-night. The first week of May last year saw the installation of the organization, and this May finds it a growing and influential element in the life of Washington and Lee. The fraternity stands for scholarship and mental attainments above all else, and a membership is an honor of high value.

The proceedings were opened by an address of welcome to the new members on the part of Dr. John Holiday Lane. Many of the students came to the chapel to hear the public remarks and to see for the first time the recently elected president of Washington and Lee, Dr. Henry Louis Smith, of Davidson. After being introduced he made the address of the evening. He spoke at length of the meaning and spirit of the fraternity and how its introduction at Washington and Lee argued for greater things in the scholarship of the institution.

After the public addresses the members and the initiates adjourned to the library for the secret meeting and the initiation.

Following this initiation came the banquet, which is reported to have been a treat by those who were fortunate and successful enough to be present.

From among the students of the university the following men are taken into Phi Beta Kappa: W. E. Miller, Lexington, J. J. Somerville, Vaiden, Miss S. Harmon, Staunton; J. N. Daniel, Chipley, Fla.; L. Craighill, Richmond; W. F. Milling, Richmond; Ira Lemmon, North Wilkesboro, N. C.; R. D. Ramsey, Camden, Ark.

It is also the custom to invite certain distinguished alumni to affiliate with the organization, and the following men were initiated: Professor W. L. Stevens, professor of physics, at Washington and Lee; Dr. T. A. Ashby, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. Edward Randall, Galveston, Texas; Walter L. McKee, New York City; and R. E. Lee, Washington, D. C.; E. W.
